The Wheel of the Year

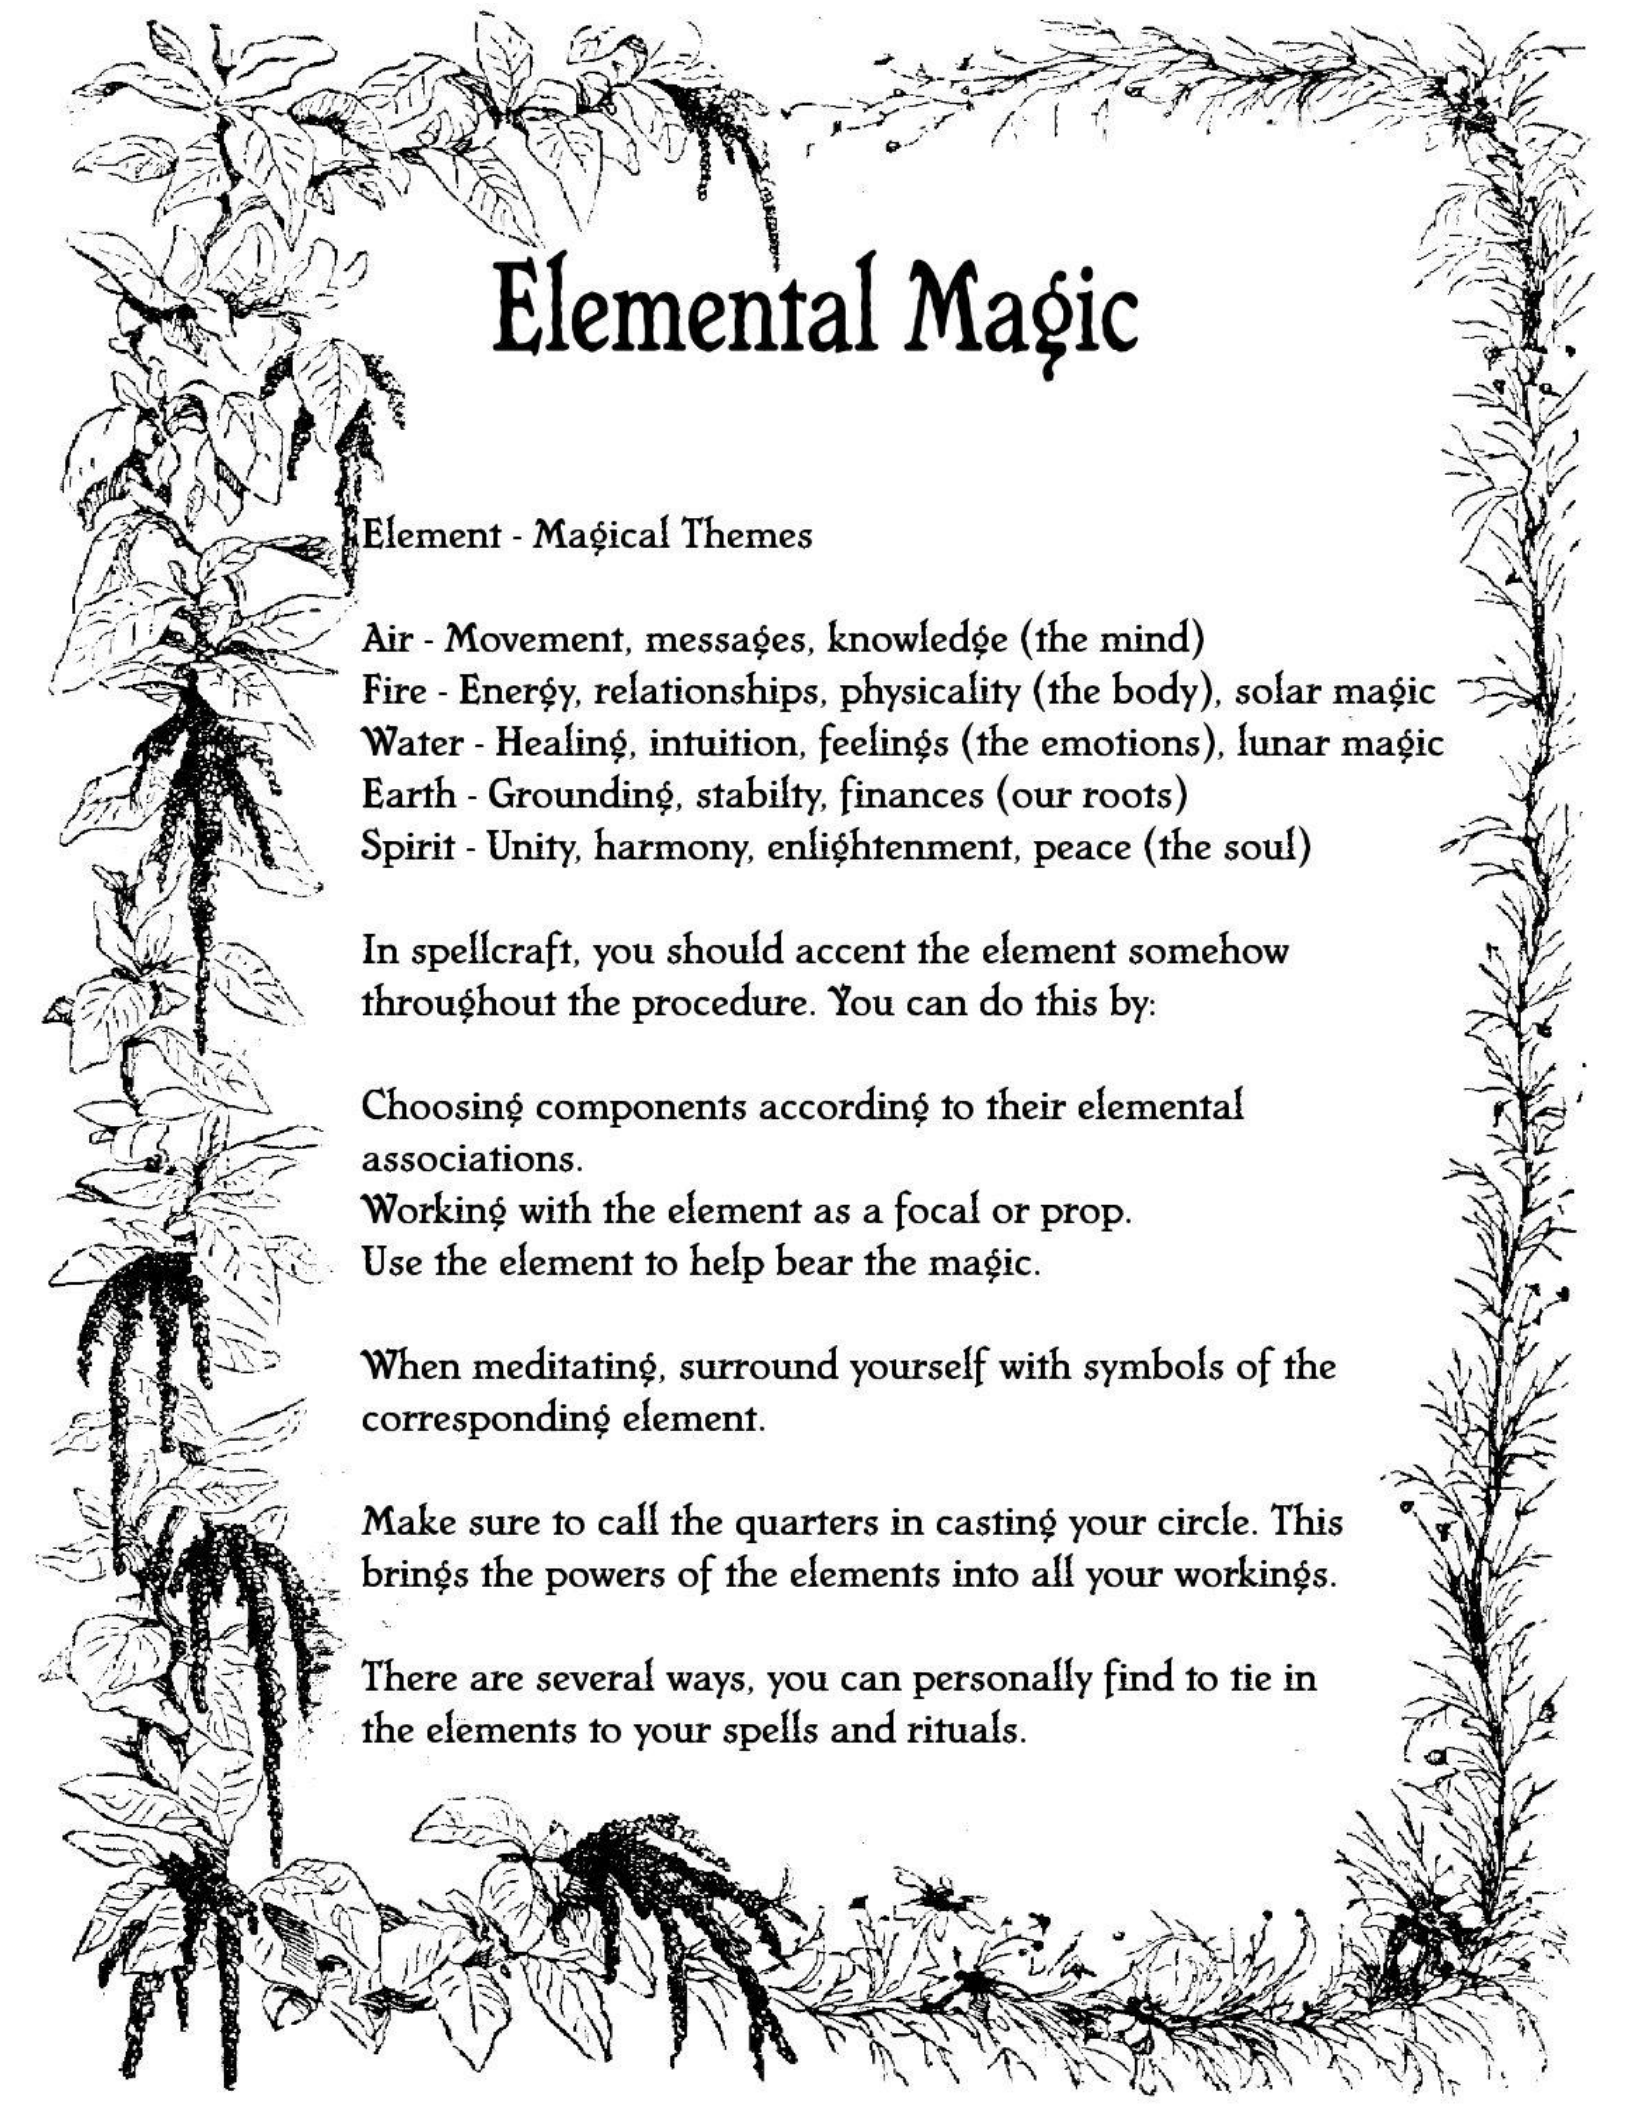

As the wheel turns, PAGANS CELEBRATE EIGHT HOLY DAYS OR SABBATS. Some say the Lady of Life rules Spring and Summer, while the Lord of Death and Resurrection rules Fall and Winter. Others say the Divine Son is born of the Great Mother at Yule, lies in ecstasy with the young Goddess at Beltane, and sacrifices Himself in life's cause at Lughnassad.

Elemental Magic

Element - Magical Themes

Air - Movement, messages, knowledge (the mind)

Fire - Energy, relationships, physicality (the body), solar magic

Water - Healing, intuition, feelings (the emotions), lunar magic

Earth - Grounding, stability, finances (our roots)

Spirit - Unity, harmony, enlightenment, peace (the soul)

In spellcraft, you should accent the element somehow throughout the procedure. You can do this by:

Choosing components according to their elemental associations.

Working with the element as a focal or prop.

Use the element to help bear the magic.

When meditating, surround yourself with symbols of the corresponding element.

Make sure to call the quarters in casting your circle. This brings the powers of the elements into all your workings.

There are several ways, you can personally find to tie in the elements to your spells and rituals.

The element of air is the first point of calling for most sacred circles.

We stand at the beginning, poised between darkness and dawn, sounds and silences.

The winds are fresh and motivating. They fill our lungs with a cool warmth, the comfort of another day in which to learn and grow.

Represents our need to keep moving and learning.

Tool - Coin, Pentacle

Upon completing the outer circle, the final destination is the element of Earth at the northern point.

This is the Mother Spirit from whom we are rooted. Here seeds of our being are sustained, fed, and nurtured into maturity.

Represents sensibility, practicality and wisdom. While we reach for the skys, our feet still stand on the terra firma.

The deeper we put down roots, the greater capacity we have to reach up to heaven without toppling from overextension.

Elemental Correspondences

FIRE CORRESPONDENCES

Turning clockwise around the circle, following the Sun, we arrive at the South and the element of Fire.

The brightness of this light banishes the shadows. Here there is no darkness - only crackling fullness, passion, and the zest of being wholly participatory in the moment.

The sun dances high in the sky, and with it our hearts beat, our feet dance, we live and we love.

Represents our energetic nature, the fires of body and soul.

Tool - Self, cauldron

Many mystical traditions add a fifth element, designated as Ether, the Void, or simply Spirit.

It binds, unites, harmonizes and directs the others. In the sacred circle, the location for the fifth element is twofold: the center and the entire sphere. Both within and without.

Represents the unknowable things in the universe - those things that go beyond surface reality, beyond space and time.

Symbolizes our ability to transcend the human frame, and the capacity of our spirits to reach out and touch the eternal.

Stones - Moonstone, Silver, Pearl
Time - Dusk
Tool - Cup

Turning once again, we find ourselves at the western quarter in the element of Water.

The Earth's tears rain down to fertilize the soil. Our emotions grow into fullness of expression and we rediscover our psychic, spiritual selves.

Water is stronger than it appears, quelling the fires that threaten to burn out of control. Yet it ebbs and wanes gently, following the Moon, and honoring our soul.

Represents learning to flow intuitively with life. Water is patient, and eventually flows through.
